

Team Building Workshop

Team Building for Teachers and Counselors Using Experiential Approaches

More and more teachers and counselors are working to create educational experiences to benefit individual and group learning. While there are many benefits to this style of teaching, there are a number of specific pedagogical skills needed to effectively facilitate the group process. This workshop will address the theory of Experiential Learning and employ a number of highly participatory activities to encourage positive group involvement and processing. Participants will be encouraged to get up and get involved, and will leave with a number of proven activities that they can duplicate themselves.
