CMSRU faculty presented at the World Psychiatric Association XVI World Congress in Psychiatry Conference in Madrid, Spain. The conference theme was "Focusing on Access, Quality and Humane Care." Rao Gogineni, MD and Consuelo Cagande, MD, Associate Professors of Psychiatry, presented the workshop "Current Trends in Human Sexuality." Dr. Gogineni presented "Child Sexual Abuse" and Dr. Cagande presented "LGBTQ: A Global Perspective." Carla Rodgers, MD, Clinical Professor and Forensic Psychiatrist, and Dr. Wilhem Rivera, Chief Resident and Clinical Instructor of Psychiatry, presented "Increasing Access to Care for Dangerous Individuals. Review of the Anders Brevik and Seng Hui Cho murders cases. Where could access have been initiated?"

R. Phillip Dellinger, MD, Chairman of the Department of Medicine, received the Lifetime Achievement Award from the Society of Critical Care Medicine (SCCM) at its January 2015 meeting. Dr. Dellinger is one of only 15 recipients of the Lifetime Achievement Award in the 45-year history of the SCCM.

Russell J. Buono, PhD, and Thomas N. Ferraro, PhD, Professors of Biomedical Sciences, were part of a team of more than 100 epilepsy researchers from around the globe who collaborated on an important epilepsy research study that was published in the September edition of the prestigious periodical The Lancet Neurology. This multi-national collaboration of researchers organized and published as the Consortium on Complex Epilepsies under the umbrella of the International League Against Epilepsy (ILAE). Both doctors also co-authored "Analysis of candidate genes for morphine preference quantitative trait locus Mop2," which was accepted for publication in Neuroscience.

Patty Vitale, MD, MPH, Assistant Professor of Pediatrics and Emergency Medicine, and CMSRU M1 student Amanda Malik participated in the "Guns Down, Life Up" Assembly in New York City to speak about the Camden GPS program during a panel discussion on how to start a hospital-based violence intervention/prevention program.

Michael E. DiSanto, Ph.D., Associate Professor of Biomedical Sciences and Surgery, was named to the Board of Directors of the American Society for Men's Health (ASMH) at their 2014 Annual meeting. Dr. DiSanto also participated in the roundtable discussion "Urologic Health in Women" last fall at the Society for Women's Health Research (SWHR) meeting in Washington, DC. The roundtable included leading scientists in basic and clinical women's urologic health research along with NIH representatives.

Document represents only a sampling of the many accomplishments made by our faculty and students.
John McGeehan, MD, Associate Dean for Student Affairs and Admissions, was invited to join the Holistic Review team of the AAMC. He also led two sessions at their national meeting, including one he is co-presenting with Jocelyn Mitchell-Williams, MD, PhD, Associate Dean for Diversity and Community Affairs, focusing on an alternative to MCAT scores during the admissions process by way of the standardized patient modules.

Marion Lombardi, MS, Chief Student Affairs Officer, and Kate Dayton, PhD, Director of Admissions, participated in the 2015 Northeast and Southern AAA-GSA/OSR Joint Spring Meeting. Ms. Lombardi will present a poster entitled "Emotional Intelligence: Humanism in Medicine," developed in collaboration with CMSRU medical librarian Susan Cavanaugh, MS, Dyanne Westerberg, DO, Family Medicine Chair, and M2 student Caroline Kaigh. Dr. Dayton hosted an educational session entitled "Holistic Review: Facing the Challenges of MCAT2015" as well as a Town Hall open question and answer period for this professional group.

Hieu T. Hoang, MD, and Michael Sabia, MD, Assistant Professors of Anesthesiology, Marc Torjman, PhD, Associate Professor of Anesthesiology, and Michael E. Goldberg, MD, Professor of Anesthesiology, recently published an article in the journal Pain Management that reviewed whether medical trainees are being effectively educated to treat chronic pain.

Warren R. Heymann, MD, Professor of Dermatology and Pediatrics, was a lead author on "Epstein-Barr virus: Dermatologic associations and implications," published in the January 2015 edition of the Journal of the American Academy of Dermatology.

Jonathan Kanen, medical student, was awarded the Gate’s Scholarship by the University of Cambridge to pursue a Ph.D. on location. There he will work with the renowned Professor Trevor Robbins on integrating pharmacological and neuroimaging methods to examine the influence of serotonin on emotional and behavioral flexibility in humans.

Hope Kilgannon, MD, Assistant Professor of Emergency Medicine, was the keynote speaker at Penn Medicine's twice annual Hypothermia and Resuscitation Training (HART) course, a CME course held at the Loews Hotel in center city.

Brian W. Roberts, MD, Assistant Professor of Emergency Medicine and an Emergency Medicine physician, was awarded a grant by the NIH - National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute for more than $630,000 to post-resuscitation partial pressure of arterial carbon dioxide and neurological outcome after cardiac arrest.

Document represents only a sampling of the many accomplishments made by our faculty and students.
Christian Barrios, medical student, collaborated with a team of CMSRU faculty and Cooper physicians to publish an article entitled, "Radiosurgery for Patients with Oligometastasis to Retroperitoneal Lymph Nodes," in the Austin Journal of Radiation Oncology and Cancer addressing the safety and efficacy of radiosurgery for patients with metastatic cancer. The team included: Tamara LaCouture, MD, Chair of Radiation Oncology; Ashish Patel, MD, Assistant Professor of Radiation Oncology, Benjamin E. Goldsmith, MD; Sucha O. Asbell, MD, Professor of Radiation Oncology, Q. Xu, MD, David P. Warshal, MD, Associate Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology, and Gregory J. Kubicek, Assistant Professor of Radiation Oncology.

Erin McIntosh, won first place in the 2015 Best Paper competition in the Single Author Medical Student category awarded by the NJ Psychiatric Association for her case report on "Pediatric Narcolepsy."

John McGeehan, MD, Associate Dean for Student Affairs and Admissions, was named to the Advisory Committee of the Advancing Holistic Review Initiative of the American Association of American Medical Colleges (AAMC).

Michael Coletta, medical student, co-authored a manuscript with Brian Roberts, MD, Assistant Professor of Emergency Medicine, entitled “Effects of PaCO2 derangements on clinical outcomes after cerebral injury: A systematic review,” which was published in Resuscitation.

Saifuddin T. Mama MD, Associate Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology, was appointed to the Association of Professors of Gynecology and Obstetrics Presidential Task Force on Global Health Strategy. In April, Dr. Mama co-presented a workshop at North American Society for Pediatric and Adolescent Gynecology on "Common Pediatric Urological Problems in Children."

Sangita Phadtare, PhD, Associate Professor of Biomedical Sciences, recently gave a presentation at the AAMC’s NEGEA Annual Retreat at the University of Massachusetts Medical School based on the "Innovation" abstract she submitted along with Hector Lopez, MD, and Evan Goldman, PhD, both Assistant Professors of Biomedical Sciences titled “An interactive session to discuss advanced human anatomy using various clinical scenarios."

JC Lopez, medical student, and Cooper PGY-2 resident David Clements IV, MD, won first place in the 2015 Best Paper competition in the Joint Submission by Residents and Medical Students category awarded by the NJ Psychiatric Association for their collaboration on a paper titled "Physical Pain and Prescription Drugs: Prescription Drugs As a Cause of Addition in the Twenty First Century."

Document represents only a sampling of the many accomplishments made by our faculty and students.
James B. Alexander, MD, FACS, was awarded “Fellow” Certification in the Association of Surgical Education Academy of Clerkship Directors in 2015, he is one of six members of the Charter group of surgeons who were awarded Academy Certification.