1. Details

- a. Change requested: Prerequisite change 2204.541
Managerial Economics

From: 2204.101 An Introduction to Economics-A Macroeconomic Perspective and 2204.102 An Introduction to Economics-A Microeconomic
Perspective or instructor's permission

To: 2204.102 An Introduction to Economics-A Microeconomic Perspective or instructor's permission

- b. Sponsor: The Department of Economics.

2. Rational

The Managerial Economics (2204.541) is really an applied intermediate microeconomics course. The clear and only prerequisite so far as the Department of Economics is concerned is the introductory microeconomics course (2204.102). Of course, the majority of the students taking the course are MBA students who must meet other requirements in that program before taking this course. However, for other graduate students and undergraduate students with senior standing who may wish the course, the 2204.102 An Introduction to Economics-A Microeconomic Perspective is the essential prerequisite.
