Rowan University is a selective, medium-sized public university located in southern New Jersey between Philadelphia and Atlantic City. With high-tech facilities, engaged professors, and nationally ranked academic and athletic programs, Rowan offers an outstanding education at an exceptional value. Through public/private partnerships, the University is able to compete with private colleges and create opportunities not available on most state university campuses.

Since its founding in 1923 as a school for teachers to its current status as a top-rated, regional institution, Rowan University has had a remarkable history. Such landmark events as the 1967 Summit Conference between President Lyndon Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin at Hollybush and the $100 million dollar gift from Henry and Betty Rowan in 1992 truly put Rowan on the map as a place of current and future leaders and professionals.

Academics
Students have access to the resources of a large university without sacrificing the personal attention and small class size of a college. All classes are taught by professors, not teaching assistants. The average class size is 21 students and the student/faculty ratio is 15 to 1.

The University offers 81 undergraduate majors among seven colleges (Business, Communication, Education, Engineering, Fine & Performing Arts, Liberal Arts & Sciences and Professional & Continuing Education). Graduate students can choose from 17 teacher certification programs, 30 master's degrees and specializations, 19 graduate certification programs and a doctoral program in educational leadership.

Accolades
Rowan is listed in the "Top Tier" of Northern Regional Universities by US News & World Report and is included in the Kaplan "Guide to the 320 Most Interesting Colleges." Kiplinger's named Rowan one of the "100 Best Buys in Public Colleges and Universities" and the Princeton Review included Rowan in the latest edition of "The Best Northeastern Colleges."

Student Body
The University enrolls more than 11,000 full- and part-time students who represent the Mid-Atlantic States and 30 foreign countries. More than 100 clubs and organizations offer students professional, cultural and service activities. Students and faculty regularly win national recognition, usually competing with larger universities.

Rowan University graduates are in demand. A total of 95 percent of recent graduates were employed or attending graduate school within one year of graduation.

Facilities
Our tree-lined campus contains student residence halls, apartments and townhouses, a new $28.5 education building, a new $45 million science center, a $28 million engineering building, a Student Recreation Center, theatres, galleries, a planetarium and 62 computer labs and 120 TEC (technology enhanced) classrooms. The University is in the midst of a $530 million plan to expand the campus and further upgrade facilities.

Scholarships and Financial Aid
Nearly 70 percent of students receive some form of financial aid, such as grants and loans or scholarships from various sources.

Athletics
Rowan has one of the strongest NCAA Division III athletics programs in the nation, earning 11 national championships.
