

Author Melissa Klapper will appear at the William G. Rohrer Memorial Library, Haddon Township Branch of the County Library System on May 30, 2007 at 7:00 to sign copies of her newest critically acclaimed novel, "Small Strangers: The Experiences of Immigrant Children in America, 1880-1925" published by Ivan R. Dee. She will discuss her new book along with selected readings.

In one of history's most remarkable movements of people across national borders, almost twenty-five million immigrants came to the United States in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries—from Mexico, Japan, and Canada as well as the more common embarkation points of southern and eastern Europe. Many of them were children. Together with the American-born children of immigrants, they made up a significant part of turn-of-the-century U.S. society. Small Strangers recounts and interprets their varied experiences to illustrate how immigration, urbanization, and industrialization—all related processes—molded modern America.

Dr. Klapper is Professor of History at Rowan University and author of Jewish Girls Coming of Age in America, 1860-1920. Please call 856-854-2752 to reserve your copy of the book being sold at a discounted price of $21.00. The library is located at: 15 MacArthur Blvd., Westmont, NJ 08108.
