Eric,

Chemistry does not like the hegis number assigned by the Registrar's office for Medicinal Chemistry. Do you want them to go back through the curriculum process to request a change? If not, I can inform the Registrar's Office to simply make the change. Christy

Other of our courses are not in sync so I see no huge driving force to do this. In fact I can come up with some reasons to not have them in sync. It is better for students to actually look up these numbers to make sure they understand prerequisites and other course requirements.

OK, Bob. Do you prefer the course to be in sync with the undergraduate version - thereby leaving it as currently assigned (510) or are you officially requesting a hegis change, which requires curriculum approval (given that we are not simply correcting an error)? Christy go through curriculum process again? Incidentally, I assigned the course the number 1907510 to keep it in sequence with the undergrad version of the course, 1907410. Thanks -sk

Its only the 510 part, sorry. The course is graduate Instrumental Analysis and its 1909.510. We do not wish any confusion in numbers when it can be avoided.

Bob,
What course do you show as having 1907.510? I do not see anything?
Jess

The hegis number assigned to the graduate course Medicinal Chemistry must be 1907.568. We received information from somewhere that is was assigned 1907.510 but this number is already used.

Thanks,
Bob
