

Learning Connections Inventory For Parents & Family Members

We invite you to participate in an ongoing learning initiative at Rowan that provides you the opportunity to take the Learning Connections Inventory (LCI), a learning pattern inventory that your son or daughter took as part of the placement testing experience. (If your student has not completed the LCI, please ask them to visit www.rowan.edu/studentaffairs/lci and complete the inventory prior to their orientation program.) We invite you, the parents, to also take the inventory so you can talk with your student about learning patterns and utilize learning pattern awareness in your family interactions.

This inventory identifies a person's learning patterns and is the basis for helping students to become intentional learners by developing strategies to be more successful in and out of the classroom. Many of the instructors at Rowan will be using the terminology of the LCI to communicate strategies and procedures for academic success and to overcome academic challenges. The directions to take the inventory follow.

Access Protocol

To take the LCI please visit <http://www.LCRinfo.com> and do the following:
