About Rowan University:

Rowan University is a selective public university and is accredited by the Middle States Commission on Higher Education. Rowan University has five campuses in New Jersey. Its 200-acre main campus is located in Glassboro, N.J., 20 minutes southeast of Philadelphia, with a 600-acre west campus one mile from main campus. Rowan became the second institution in the nation to have both a D.O.-granting medical school (Rowan School of Osteopathic Medicine) and an M.D.-granting medical school (Cooper Medical School of Rowan University). In 2015 Rowan enrolled 16,155 students (4,483 living on-campus) that can select from 74 bachelor’s, 51 master’s, and 4 doctoral degree programs in colleges and schools across 5 campuses. The University is one of only 56 institutions in the country with accredited programs in business, education, engineering and medicine. Rowan University has been ranked among the top three schools in the nation for “social mobility” by CollegeNET. Rowan transformed higher education opportunities in Southern New Jersey by partnering with Gloucester County College and Burlington County College by offering conditional dual enrollment with Rowan University.
